

covers the key business functions required by social entrepreneurs, and managers in social enterprises, with perspectives on strategy, finance, ethics, governance, marketing and people management. It also intends to bring together the knowledge and experience of social enterprise pioneers in the field, local and overseas, to show what it takes to implement and run an effective social venture or organization. Students will receive practical guides including best practices, tools, guidance, models and successful cases for NGOs.

SOPY 4025 Technology, Social Change and Quality of Life (3,3,0) (E)

The focus is on studying the impact of social and technological changes on the individuals, families and groups in. Case studies and other means would be used to illustrate the application of practical theories and assessment models for social development in different social contexts, such as Hong Kong and other territories.

SOPY 4035 Welfare Regimes in the Greater China Region (3,3,0) (E)

This course aims at providing students with theoretical as well as an analytical framework in understanding welfare regimes in the Greater China Region, including Taiwan, Hong Kong as well as other related regions. Students will first examine the theoretical underpinning of regime model followed by a critical examination of how different regimes have been developed (the liberal, conservative, social democratic and Confucian). Case examples of social policies in relation to different welfare regimes in the Greater China Region will be used as illustrations throughout the course.

SOPY 4045 Administration in Non-profit Making Organizations (3,3,0) (E)

The focus is on studying selective organizational theories with the aim of fostering a general understanding of the administration of non-profit-making organization. Another objective is to help students to comprehend the values, principles, processes, functions and skills of management in these organizations. Case studies would be used to illustrate the application of practical theories and models in these organizations especially in the context of Hong Kong.

SOPY 4055 Challenges of Sustainable Development (3,3,0) (E)

This course aims to enhance students' overall understanding of sustainability and social policy, including green ideologies, green parties, green pressure groups and social policy, quality of life. The format of the course is a mixture of lectures and group project. Students will be provided with not only a good access to a solid knowledge base in green ideologies, but also a platform to learn by doing social policy with green policy agenda. By the end of the course, students should be able to identify the basic principles, and learn ethical implication of sustainability and social policy, as well as master basic skills of opening up the discipline of green social policy.

SOPY 4065 Comparative Social Policy (3,3,0) (E)

This course aims at providing students with a theoretical as well as analytical framework in understanding comparative social policies. Students will first examine the comparative social policy theories and human rights, followed by an examination of the comparative social policy issues. Cases examples of comparative social policies relevant to the Hong Kong context will be used as illustrations throughout the course.

SOPY 4105 Youth and Citizenship (3,3,0) (E)

This course aims at providing students with a critical examination of the different models of youth citizenship and youth participation and their theoretical and ideological underpinnings with reference to the advancement of youth welfare and youth's transitions to adulthood. The controversies regarding the substance of youth citizenship and the framework for achieving this with youth in general and youth at the margin will be examined with reference to both local and non-local examples.

SOPY 4115 Youth in Transition, Employment and Education (3,3,0) (E)

This course aims at providing students with a critical understanding on the subject matter of youth transitions in capitalist societies with specific reference to mainstreaming of and disadvantage in school-to-work transitions. Taking into account the mediating roles played by agency and structure, the diversity, differences and contradictions of activation policy and inclusion measures illustrated with the use of both local and non-local case studies will be examined.

SOPY 4125 Gender, Identity and Young People (3,2,1) (E)

This course is to help students understand the social formation and struggles of gender and gender practices among young people. It also helps to develop critical thinking on the way in which gender is embedded in local cultures, institutional sites and social policies, as well as everyday social relationships. Students will be encouraged to examine how these have impacts on their identities, citizenship and lives.

SOPY 4205 Poverty and Social Exclusion (3,3,0) (E)

Ever since the poverty study at the end of the 19th century, poverty alleviation captured the attention of governments of different orientations and the pro-poor activists in the academic and movement circles. The policy measures for poverty alleviation underwent alteration alongside the changes in the conceptual arena and the social economic context domestically and globally. This course introduces students to the conceptual terrain for understanding poverty, which includes the different interpretations of poverty, the conceptual turn from poverty to (in)equality and the recent dominance of the concept of social exclusion. It then interrogates the domestic and global context with which transformation has been going on in the past decade. The practical implications of the theoretical constructs are examined and contextualized. The process of conceiving strategies for poverty alleviation will be explored to equip students of the needed tools for the endeavour.

SOPY 4215 Pension and Retirement Protection (3,3,0) (E)

This course is to provide students different perspectives on social policy for retirement and retirement protection. It also gives students an understanding of the nature, role and operation of different pension systems as well as their risks and contributions on retirement protection. By understanding the global and local pension and retirement policies and schemes students will be helped to develop a critical sense to appreciate, examine and criticize the strategies and values adopted in the mixed economy of retirement protection and its implications for different populations in the society.

SOPY 4225 Public Health Care Systems (3,3,0) (E)

The objectives of the course are to prove students a framework for an understanding dimension of social dimensions of well-being, health, illness and disability, to enable students to appreciate the significance of the health and illness dimension of human life and the role of the health care systems in the promoting health and dealing with illness.

SOSC 1005/ Internship I 1110 (3,0,0)

This course aims to provide students with off-campus learning opportunities to put their knowledge and skills into practice and to gain on-the-job experience in an internship. Students will obtain interdisciplinary first-hand practical learning experiences in different kind of local and/or international organizations, such as business, government, social services, etc. Through first-hand practical experience in real work place, students are expected to develop self-awareness, explore their job interests, establish job required attributes, experience real-workplace challenges, and prepare for employment as professional practitioners upon