

computer lab. By the end of the course, students should be able to identify the basic principles, and learn ethical implication of social research, as well as master basic skills of designing and implementing research projects.

SOPY 3055 Communications and Networking of the Non-profit-making Organizations (3,3,0)

The focus is on studying selective theories related to communications and networking of the non-profit making organizations with the aim of fostering an open system with reasonable connections with the stakeholders and the public through various means and activities. Another objective is to help students comprehend the values, principles, processes, functions and skills of fund-raising and publicity management in these organizations. Case studies would be used to illustrate the application of practical theories and models in these organizations especially in the context of Hong Kong.

SOPY 3065 Culture and Social Policy (3,3,0)

This course aims to enhance students' overall understanding of culture and social policy, including sociology of culture, the western domination of social policy discourse, culturalism, diversity and change. The format of the course is a mixture of lectures, group project and cultural sensitivity workshops. Students will be provided with not only a good access to a solid knowledge base in cultural theory, but also a platform to learn by doing social policy with cultural sensitivity. By the end of the course, students should be able to identify the basic principles, and learn ethical implication of culture and social policy, as well as master basic skills of re-evaluating policy content as part of anti-oppressive strategies.

SOPY 3075 Globalization and Social Policy (3,3,0)

This course aims at providing students with a theoretical as well as an analytical framework in understanding globalisation and social policy. Students will first examine the theoretical underpinnings of globalization, followed by a critical examination of how societies react to globalization through formulation of different social policies. Case examples of social policy in Hong Kong will be used as illustrations throughout the course.

SOPY 3085 Policy Processes and Politics (3,3,0)

The focus is on studying selective organizational theories with the aim of fostering a general understanding of the basic concepts of political science, policy making models and the patterns of policy making in different political entities. Case studies would be used to illustrate the application of practical theories and models in different territories, especially in the context of Hong Kong.

SOPY 3095 Social Policy in Chinese Societies (3,2,1)

The objectives of this course are to help students gain an overview of the social development of contemporary Chinese societies, to develop an understanding of the institutional structure of modern China, Taiwan, Hong Kong and other Chinese societies, to explore the current policy issues and challenges, and to examine the actual welfare implementation and training of welfare personnel.

SOPY 4005 Policy Analysis and Evaluation (3,3,0)

Prerequisite: SOPO 2140 Social Research

The objective of this course is to introduce the basic concepts and methods in policy analysis and evaluation. In this course, students will learn to define problems and goals in making a policy, identify appropriate research techniques, gather information, formulate policy solution alternatives and systematically compare and evaluate the alternatives. Besides, they will be given the opportunity to approach policy issues within the relevant social, cultural and historical context in Hong Kong and great China. The course will help students not only to understand various factors that influence policy making and policy outcomes, but also theoretical foundations and methodologies in conducting ex-ante evaluations versus ex-post evaluations, cost-benefit analysis, interpretive policy analysis and others.

SOPY 4008-9 Honours Project (3,*,*)

Prerequisite: SOPY 3045 Social Research

The Honours Project provides an opportunity for students to complete an independent research project about a particular area of social policy under the guidance of a supervisor. The Project involves an application of knowledge and skills acquired from classes and independent learning of students to address policy issues in the context of Hong Kong or China.

SOPY 4015 Social Enterprises and the Third Sector (3,3,0)

Social enterprises constitute a rapidly growing sector of the business communities today. They bring people and communities together for economic development and social gain. This course covers the key business functions required by social entrepreneurs, and managers in social enterprises, with perspectives on strategy, finance, ethics, governance, marketing and people management. It also intends to bring together the knowledge and experience of social enterprise pioneers in the field, local and overseas, to show what it takes to implement and run an effective social venture or organization. Students will receive practical guides including best practices, tools, guidance, models and successful cases for NGOs.

SOPY 4025 Technology, Social Changes and Quality of Life (3,3,0)

The focus is on studying the impact of social and technological changes on the individuals, families and groups in. Case studies and other means would be used to illustrate the application of practical theories and assessment models for social development in different social contexts, such as Hong Kong and other territories.

SOPY 4035 Welfare Regimes in the Greater China Region (3,3,0)

This course aims at providing students with theoretical as well as an analytical framework in understanding welfare regimes in the Greater China Region, including Taiwan, Hong Kong as well as other related regions. Students will first examine the theoretical underpinning of regime model followed by a critical examination of how different regimes have been developed (the liberal, conservative, social democratic and Confucian). Case examples of social policies in relation to different welfare regimes in the Greater China Region will be used as illustrations throughout the course.

SOPY 4045 Administration in Non-profit-making Organizations (3,3,0)

The focus is on studying selective organizational theories with the aim of fostering a general understanding of the administration of non-profit-making organization. Another objective is to help students to comprehend the values, principles, processes, functions and skills of management in these organizations. Case studies would be used to illustrate the application of practical theories and models in these organizations especially in the context of Hong Kong.

SOPY 4055 Challenges of Sustainable Development (3,3,0)

This course aims to enhance students' overall understanding of sustainability and social policy, including green ideologies, green parties, green pressure groups and social policy, quality of life. The format of the course is a mixture of lectures and group project. Students will be provided with not only a good access to a solid knowledge base in green ideologies, but also a platform to learn by doing social policy with green policy agenda. By the end of the course, students should be able to identify the basic principles, and learn ethical implication of sustainability and social policy, as well as master basic skills of opening up the discipline of green social policy.

SOPY 4065 Comparative Social Policy (3,3,0)

This course aims at providing students with a theoretical as well as analytical framework in understanding comparative social policies. Students will first examine the comparative social policy theories and human rights, followed by an examination of the comparative social policy issues. Cases examples of comparative